Virginia a Strong Commitment to Investors

Please join us for our Netherlands visit 2015,

Ryland Potter and Markus van Tilburg representing the State of Virginia in Europe will be in the Netherlands during April 22-23, 2015. This outreach is focused on companies from the food and food processing industry. Our visit is echoing President Obama statement that the United States is “open for business” and warmly welcomes foreign investors to operate in our transparent, stable and open market.

Building on Success – The State of Virginia

If your business is considering to invest in the US, we can help facilitate your expansion to the Commonwealth of Virginia. We specialize in helping businesses explore the diverse offerings of Virginia to pinpoint the perfect location for growth or relocation. Please note that all our services are free of cost and are a service of the State of Virginia to potential investors.

After an initial conversation to better understand your needs, we will prepare a summary of the most current market, economic and demographic information. We will also supply individually tailored research of suitable land and buildings, labor availability, local suppliers and other needs. We can then coordinate your site visits, and work with local utility companies and other business development partners to ensure your requirements will be met there, too. If necessary, we will coordinate with other government agencies, helping you with such matters as meeting environmental regulations, understanding tax guidelines or designing workforce training programs. We can also help your business apply for financial incentives for which you may eligible.

Please fill in the following page if you are interested in a personal meeting with Virginia representatives. According to response and amount of interested companies we will either schedule one to one meetings or organize a joint discussion for interested companies.

Kind regards,

Markus van Tilburg
